

Abstract

A messaging system having a network interface unit (NIU) with an embedded services processor (ESP) that provides a general purpose computing capability within the 5 NIU and that may also have the ability to connect to networks external to the messaging system via that general purpose computing capability is disclosed.

007130" 9599E960